MIDNIGHT DISPATCHES.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Congressional—Alexander Stephens defends the Increase Back Pay Salary Bill—He Places High Value on the Services of Representatives—He Thinks Abolition of the Franchise Privilege Unwise—Williams All Hunky—Southern Claims, etc., etc.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—House—A survey of the ship Canal between Lake Michigan and Wabash River was ordered.
The Election Committee were instructed to examine and report the best and most practicable method of electing the President and Vice President, and providing for a tribunal to adjust and decide all contested questions therewith.
A resolution passed asking the Postmaster General the number of men required for the proposed postal savings banks and telegraph, when in full operation.
The salary bill was resumed with its definite action.
Stephens, of Ga., was the next speaker. He got on his feet with some difficulty and not without assistance. There he supported himself with a crutch which he left arm. He spoke with a clear ringing voice, which was distinctly heard in every portion of the Chamber, except when he dropped his tones, as he did very frequently at the close of sentences. His manner was nervous and rapid, and his remarks very digressive, many of his sentences being left uncompleted. He was listened to with the closest interest and attention by members, officers and the audience. He commenced by saying he would examine the question of a journalist in his country was one of the highest. The fourth estate did in this age control public sentiment, but he would in all earnestness say to the press and its conductors, that nothing was more important than that in treating of subjects with the masses of the people they should look well to the truth and correctness and principles of what they addressed to the people. The press had denounced as thieves and robbers the members of the last Congress, and he had seen one paper which had represented the raid on the treasury very much like the charge of the six hundred at Balaclava. He had thought the wit of that representation more appropriate than the wisdom. The gentleman from New York, Tremaine, had spoken yesterday of demagoguism. He, Stephens, maintained that there could be no statesmanship without it. There never had been a statesman who was not a demagogue. The word originally meant a leader of the people. Pericles was a demagogue. There were two kinds of demagogues—the sham and the genuine. The genuine demagogue was the man who led the people and who guided the people. The sham demagogue panders to the errors and prejudices of the people. The real statesman was the physician of humanity. The sham demagogue simply courted favors in order to get office and the spoils of office. He considered Lord Chatham as the true, the genuine demagogue and related an anecdote to the effect that when Lord Chatham was proposing to the English Cabinet a new measure of taxation, including the taxing of the windows, he missed one member of the Cabinet and asked for him by name. The answer was that it made no difference whether that member was present or not, because he was a fool. "That is the very reason," said Chatham, "that I want him here, because the way he thinks about this thing is the way that the majority of the people of England may think about it, and I want to know the sentiment of the public." He wanted to know it not to ponder to it, but that he might go to the people and raise them to a sentiment of the necessity and propriety of the measure. Recurring to the consideration of the increased salary bill, Mr. Stephens said that he was very glad to say that that was a measure for which neither political party was responsible.

His opinion was that the democracy, in the proportion of its vote in Congress, was quite as responsible as the Republican party. The gentleman from New York, Tremaine, had admitted yesterday that under the disabilities which Congress had a right to fix its own compensation. It had done so from the beginning of the government. It had frequently increased that compensation and the increase was always and necessarily retroactive. Worthy men had done this in the past century and in the early part of the present century. The brightest ornaments in American history had subjected themselves to be denounced as salary grabbers and thieves. The first great thing to be learned in this life, that which had been taught in the schools of ancient Greece, was to discriminate between that which the multitude thought was right and that which was right in itself. If there was anything wrong, anything immoral, anything dishonest, anything which would reflect disgrace on a man's memory for taking that legal appropriation, he wanted to know what it was. If it was wrong for members to take what the law allowed, where were they to be held to rule for right or wrong. He remained on this subject for a long time, and he was a citizen of the country, and he felt a deep interest in the dignity and character of Congress. He claimed that when Congress passed the retroactive law of last session, it had a constitutional right to do so. He was not saying whether it was expedient or not, but no bluish should rest on the cheek of any man whether he voted for the bill or not, who took the money. If he had not here he should have been in the Senate, and he would not have proceeded to discuss it in its political aspect. He was not going to place a value on his own services as a Representative, but if he were to state what he thought the services of a Representative ought to be, he would go far above the figure of any law that has ever been passed. A Representative of the people ought to be a man of that mental calibre, that information, that education, that virtue, that trustworthiness, and all the qualities which constitute the highest of human beings. He had given it as his opinion in the last speech he made in the House, fourteen years ago, that if the salaries of members of Congress were ten thousand dollars, that would be a fair figure, and the amount allowed in the bill, he believed that the most unwise action of the last Congress was the abolition of the franking privilege.

At the next executive session of the Senate, the Committee on Judiciary will report on the bill for the nomination of Geo. H. Williams to be Chief Justice.

It appears from the report of the Southern Claims Commission, that the gross amount of claims filed is sixty million, and the aggregate amount on ten millions. There remaining seventeen thousand claims, amounting to fifty millions, are to be adjudicated. The amount claimed in the whole number of cases now reported is $4,718,891, and the amount allowed in the bill of the 1863 approved claims is $644,965, an average allowance of $590 to each claimant.

The indications are that the House of Representatives will pass a bill fixing the salary of members of Congress at about six thousand dollars per year, with an allowance of actual travelling expenses.

Alfred T. A. Torbert was confirmed to-day as Consul General at Paris. Representatives from the Mississippi valley are making arrangements to secure favorable legislation on the transportation question as affecting that section.

The Whipping of Prisoners.

Mr. Harris moved to take from the table the bill in reference to the whipping of prisoners in the Penitentiary and common jails, and that it be referred to the Judiciary Committee. The said bill prohibits such punishment. The Senator did not properly publish the bill, but common humanity prompted him to see that such outrages be not allowed.

Mr. Worth proposed the reconsideration of the bill, as the punishment had proved wholesome medicine.

Mr. Gudger favored the motion of Senator Harris. He thought the General Assembly should look into this matter, and if the authorities at the penitentiary were acting inhumanly, they should themselves be properly punished therefor.

The motion to take from the table prevailed.

Resolutions.

Mr. Cramer, a resolution of instruction to the Public Printer, concerning the embodiment of certain reports in the Legislative Documents. Tabled.

Mr. Morehead, of Guilford, called up bill granting Battle's Revisal to such members of the Legislature as may be Magistrates. Passed its several readings.

Mr. Cowles moved the consideration of the bill declaring the manner of distribution of Battle's Revisal. Certain amendments, requiring that all county officers turn over to their successors in office the said laws, was adopted, and the bill referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Mr. Love here insisted that under the suspension of the rules, as moved by Mr. Cowles, the latter gentleman had accepted an amendment to consider at the same time a bill named by himself.

The President ruled that no record of this motion was made by the Clerk, and that he had no recollection of it himself.

Mr. Love was sustained in this belief by Messrs. Cowles and Grandy, but no appeal being taken from the decision of the Chair, and no motion made to correct the records, other business was proceeded with. Mr. Love stated that he would never make another motion to suspend the rules whilst a member of the Senate, and retired from the Chamber.

Messrs. Outlaw, Richardson and Moring were announced as the successors of Messrs. Gudger, Gidney, Craig, on the House Committee of the Joint Committee on Printing.

On motion of Mr. Bowman, the rules were suspended and the bill reported by the Committee on Propositions and Grievances, as a substitute for the various bills amendatory of the act in relation to the prohibition of the sale of liquor in certain localities which are now pending, was taken up.

Mr. Brown, of Mecklenburg, moved to make special order for Saturday at 12 M. Adopted.

On motion of Mr. Johnston, the rules were suspended and the bill in relation to Education was taken up.

Mr. Bennett moved to strike out the section which authorizes the Superintendent of Public Instruction to subscribe $1,000 to the State Educational Journal.

Mr. Bennett took the ground that the General Assembly had no right to draw out from the Educational Fund money for such a purpose. Mr. Bennett proceeded at length to urge his objections to the section.

Mr. Bennett's amendment was put to a vote and adopted—yeas 68, nays 20.

The bill then passed its third reading.

The following is the bill as it passed the House:
The General Assembly of North Carolina do enact:

Sec. 3. That the word "July," in section 38 of chapter 90, public laws of 1872-'73, be stricken out and "October" inserted therefor.

Sec. 4. This act shall be in force from its passage.

On motion of Mr. Joyner, the rules were suspended and the bill to incorporate the town of Pine Level, Johnston county, was taken up and passed its several readings.

On motion of Mr. Bryan, of Alleghany, the rules were suspended, and the bill giving to the counties of Ashe, Mitchell, Alleghany, Watauga, Buncombe, &c., the proceeds of the entry of vacant lands in these counties for the purpose of completing the Marion and Asheville Turnpike, was taken up and passed its second reading.

The rules were suspended and the bill was taken up on its reading and, on motion of Mr. Bryan, of Alleghany, was referred to the Judiciary Committee.

CONSECRATION OF BISHOP LYMAN.

INTERESTING CEREMONIES.

The Sermon of Bishop Lay.

Yesterday the Rev. Dr. Theodore Benedict Lyman, Assistant Bishop elect of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of North Carolina, was consecrated as such in due form at Christ's Episcopal Church.

A large number of laymen, together with a majority of the local members of the State, were present to witness the ceremony, and at 10 o'clock the large and spacious Church was filled to its utmost. The Church was entirely bare of ornaments, but owing to the cloudy, foggy weather, it became necessary to light the gas in the vicinity of the Chancel, which was all to mark the difference in its usual appearance.

At 11 o'clock, the procession entered the right aisle of the Church, and was announced by the playing of "Old Hundred" on the organ.

Bishop Whittingham, of Maryland, and Bishop Atkinson, of North Carolina, headed the procession, followed by Bishop Lay, of Eastern, Dr. Lyman and about thirty ministers, all clad in clerical surplices.

The services were opened by Rev. Dr. Sutton, of Pittsboro, Bishop Atkinson pronouncing the absolution. The first lesson, the xxxv chapter of Isaiah, was read by Rev. Dr. Lyman, and about thirty ministers, all clad in clerical surplices.

The Nicene creed was read by Rev. Mr. Hulse, of Fayetteville, the anti-communion service, by Bishop Atkinson, the Epistles 1 Tim. iii chapter, by Bishop Lay, and the Gospel, the xli chapter of John commencing at the 15th verse, by Bishop Whittingham.

The consecration sermon was delivered by Bishop Lay, taking the 11th verse of the xvii chap. of John for his text.

The principal theme of the distinguished minister's discourse was UNITY, and he was safely said, one of the most powerful sermons ever delivered under the roof of Christ's Church. There was no provision made for reporters, consequently we were unable to take any notes of the sermon.

After the sermon the consecration services commenced. Rev. Dr. Cheshire read the testimonials of the election of Dr. Theodore B. Lyman, at the State Episcopal Convention, held in Fayetteville in May last, and also the permission granted by the Bishops of the United States, signed by Bishop Benj. P. Smith, of Ky., as Secretary, and read by Rev. Dr. Smodes of this city.

The usual questions, as contained in the regular form of the church, laid down in the prayer book, were asked by Bishop Whittingham, who acted as Consecrator or presiding Bishop.

The truly solemn and impressive ceremony was witnessed with a feeling interest by the immense congregation, and not until the last words of the benediction fell from the lips of the minister that the slightest rustle was heard in the congregation.

A. E. HENDERSON, Esq.—The following communication has been sent us from Oxford in regard to the above named gentleman, who succeeds Messrs. Horner & Graves in the conduct of the well known school there:

[For the News.]
Oxford has ever been famous for the superiority of its schools and the invigorating healthfulness of its climate. For these reasons it has received a liberal share of patronage from the nobles and gentry of the county, and not until the last words of the benediction fell from the lips of the minister that the slightest rustle was heard in the congregation.

BILIOUS.—If you feel dull, drowsy, debilitated, despondent, have frequent belching, mouth tastes badly in morning, frequent appetite and tongue coated, you are suffering from Torpid Liver or "Biliousness." In many cases of "Liver Complaint," one of the most distressing symptoms are experienced. As a remedy for all such cases, Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" has been found to effect a perfect cure, leaving the liver strengthened and healthy. Sold by all first-class druggists.

How unnecessary the anguish many persons undergo from rheumatism, gout, neuralgia, sciatica and caruncle. We sell an unnecessary waste of money in the use of Mexican Mustang Liniment to the effect, part, or of some of the applications to the tooth, affords instantaneous, and, what is better, permanent relief. For cuts, wounds, and all other injuries, and all injuries of the skin, this liniment is everywhere regarded as the best of all. Medical discovery has no equal in existence. For all external injuries, the liniment of horses and cattle, is invaluable.

His Honor, HENRY POTTER, late Judge of the United States Court, or the District of North Carolina, gave the following as his opinion of Beckwith's Pills:

"For some ten or twelve years past I have been the habitual user of DR. BECKWITH'S ANTI-BILIOUS PILLS in my family, and consider them so valuable that I cannot but recommend them to the stock to be exhausted. I have used them with good effect in dyspeptic cases, and in various modifications of the same, and found them efficacious in relieving from flatulencies, swellings, and all other ailments of the bowels, and from all the usual symptoms of biliousness, and the resulting distress. As an aperient, they are excellent. As a purgative, they are pleasant. My acquaintance with the value of these pills, has been the gentleman of talents, integrity and worth, who ranks high in the science of medicine and the humanitary art."
